Long term unemployment still well above the pre-debt crisis levels

Recovery of productivity requires continued implementation of structural reforms and investments

Selected indicators of domestic economic activity

ESI deteriorates; more resilient relative to the Euro Area

PMI marginally below the 50 units threshold for 3 months in a row

Retail trade volume: resilience despite inflationary pressures

Manufacturing production: growth decelerates

Significant boost to growth ahead from RRF funds

Greece is the largest RRF beneficiary relative to the size of its economy (RRF G&Ls at 16.7% of its 2021 GDP)

- RRF loan-arm: contracting for 41 projects concerning investments in excess of €1.8bn completed so far (€824mn from RRF loans, 4Q22 financing target of €586mn). 210 investment projects already submitted, with a budget of €8.2bn.

Sovereign debt profile

- According to the 2023 Draft Budget DSA, the Greek Gross Public Debt is expected at 169.1% and 161.6% of GDP in 2022 and 2023 respectively vs 194.5% in 2021 and a peak of 206.3% in 2020
- Over 77% of the debt stock is held by official sector creditors^{1,3} allowing for long maturity profile, low and fixed interest rates
- Debt maturity is significantly longer than EA periphery countries² at ca 20.6 years versus 8 years (as of Dec-2021)
- Interest Debt Service to Revenues at 5.6% [5.2% in EA Periphery and 9.5% in countries with similar (Baa) rating]
- Regular issuance of €14.0bn in 2021, rebuilt and extended the yield curve to 32 years. New issuance in 2022 initially expected (PDMA) at €12.0bn (€8.0 bn already raised by end of October 2022)
- General Government cash buffer at ca €40bn⁴ (22% of 2021 GDP); it allows almost 3 years of debt repayment without refinancing

Bulgaria

Solid GDP growth footing in H1, challenges lie ahead

- In October, the IMF forecasted a 3.9% GDP growth in 2022, with geopolitical risks and inflationary pressures causing a slow down to 3.0% in 2023
- 1H22 GDP growth rate stands at 5.1% y-o-y, with some loss of steam expected in the second half of the year
- Inflation on double digit grounds since February; it climbed to 18.7% y-o-y in September, bringing the year-to-September HICP figure at 12.5% on the back of energy and food prices galloping (IMF forecast for FY22 at 12.4% y-o-y will most probably be surpassed)
- Some decompression on the energy segment from the recent IGB operation and its respective decrease by almost 30% in the locally regulated natural gas price is expected in the next couple of months
- Expected delay in Euro adoption, most probably after 2024 ; the absence of a stable coalition government poses headwinds in the reforms agenda
- Optimum management of ample RRF funds remains pivotal for the economy's potential

1H22 growth rate solid, slightly above the region average

...with inflationary pressures remaining

- IMF (2022 Autumn Forecasts) foresees a FY22 growth of 3.5% y-o-y; for 2023 a 2.5% growth is projected
- Solid economic momentum in 1H22 with GDP growth coming in at 6.3% y-o-y, after a 4.4% contraction in 2020 and a rebound of 6.6% in 2021; the firm momentum is broadly attributed to the faster-than-expected recovery of tourism, with rising investment also contributing significantly to growth
- Arrivals of tourists increased strongly in the first 9 months of 2022, approaching 78% of 2019 levels, despite the high dependency on Russian tourist flows
- Despite recovery of tourism, the current account deficit widened in 1H22 to 14.4% of GDP, from 11.3% in 1H21, due to a deterioration in the goods balance
- Yet, inflation soars in 2022; at 10.6% y-o-y in July, an all-time high. However, it decelerated during August-October, standing at 8.6% y-o-y in the last month, which brings the year to October print at 8.1% y-o-y (same as the euro area average)
- Cyprus maintains uninterrupted market access and investment-grade status; sovereign credit rating upgrade by S&P in September from BBB- to BBB on the basis of the economy's resilience to external shocks and expectations that the fiscal position will continue improving

In terms of GDP growth, Cyprus performs similarly to peripheral peers, but better than the EA average...

...with inflation decelerating in August – October, below the EA average
